

The 2nd Annual Africana Studies' Distinguished Speaker Series
THE EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION:
150 YEARS LATER

Free & Open: Lunch Provided | For More Info: africanastudies.unm.edu

Dr. Melanye Price, Assistant Professor in Africana Studies and Political Science, Rutgers University—New Brunswick

Unfinished Democracy: Race, Citizenship, and the Quest for Political Voice and Influence

Friday, April 12, 2013 11:00AM
Student Union Building (SUB) Lobo A & B

Dr. Christian Davenport, Professor in Political Science, University of Michigan—Ann Arbor

"From Enslavement to Freedom and Back Again:"
Understanding African American Freedom 150 years after the Emancipation Proclamation

Friday, April 19, 2013 11:00AM
Student Union Building (SUB) Fiesta A & B

Cosponsors: The Division for Equity and Inclusion; The Office of the Provost; The Robert Wood Johnson Center; and The Department of American Studies

The Distinguished Speaker Series invites emerging and established scholars and artists, who represent a variety of backgrounds, perspectives and epistemologies, from across the African Diaspora to present works that encourage critical dialogue, promote social justice, and foster a climate that imbues diversity as an asset.